Biografia:

Singer, actress, writer, TV personality: Arisa's artistic career branches out in many directions, all illuminated by her multifaceted talent.

Arisa undoubtedly possesses one of the most beautiful voices of all Italian female singers, with the ability to move even the most demanding listeners. Born Rosalba Pippa on 20 August 1982, in Genoa, she is raised in the family home in Pignola, a small town a few kilometres away from Potenza. She has music in her DNA: she is only four years old when she takes part in her first competition, singing "Fatti mandare dalla mamma" by Gianni Morandi, and setting out on a long voyage that would lead her, in 2007, to win a scholarship as a singer at CET (the music school directed by renowned Italian lyricist Mogol), where she meets the songwriter Giuseppe Anastasi, with whom she begins a fruitful artistic collaboration.

Success at "SanremoLab" in 2008 propels her to the stage of the Ariston Theatre, in the ranks of the New Artist category at the 2009 Sanremo Festival. A stunning debut. Arisa wins with the song "Sincerità" and wins over even the more discerning and demanding listeners: she wins the Critics' Award dedicated to Mia Martini and the Assomusica Casa Sanremo Award for having been able to immediately establishing a rapport with the audience ("Sincerità" tops the iTunes chart even before the Sanremo Festival is over).

The song stays at the top of the singles chart for six consecutive weeks, projecting her debut album "Sincerità" into the Top 5 of the album charts. She soon follows up her success at Sanremo, receiving a gold disk for per the album "Sincerità" at MTV's TRL Awards, and being named Best New Artist at the Wind Music Awards ceremony, held at the Verona Arena, by the Italian association of record companies. She also performs at the Venice Music Awards, and begins touring: on 21 June 2009, she is among the performers at the live benefit "Amiche per l'Abruzzo" at the Milan San Siro stadium, organised by Laura Pausini, Gianna Nannini, Giorgia, Elisa, and Fiorella Mannoia to raise funds in support of earthquake victims in the Abruzzo region of Italy. In September 2009 she is invited to sing at the Quirinale palace, residence of the Italian President of the Republic. In 2010, Arisa is back at the Sanremo Festival with the song "Malamorenò". At the same time as the single, which rises high in the sales charts, the album with the same title is also published, "Malamorenò", which includes songs co-written by Arisa.

Television also falls in love with Arisa, who is invited to take part in all the major shows.

In 2011 she makes her debuts as a movie actress, and the very positive response allows her to make acting a fruitful side career. Arisa plays Chiara in the film "Tutta colpa della musica", directed by Ricky Tognazzi and presented at the Venice Film Festival. In addition to acting alongside Stefania Sandrelli, Elena Sofia Ricci, Marco Messeri, Debora Villa, and Ricky Tognazzi himself, Arisa sings the theme song: "Il tempo che verrà", written by her in collaboration with Giuseppe Barbera and Giuseppe Anastasi. Her promising silver screen debut garners her a role in "La peggior settimana della mia vita", directed by Alessandro Genovesi, in which she acts alongside Alessandro Siani (lead role with Claudio Bisio in "Benvenuti al sud" and "Benvenuti al nord"), Fabio De Luigi, and Cristiana Capotondi. Once again she performs the theme song "L'amor sei tu", penned together with Naïf Hérin.
